Discover the Stories That Shaped Victoria

The National Trust of Australia (Victoria) cares for more than 35 properties across the state, each with its own story to tell.

From Australia's First Peoples to early settlers, history-makers, and cultural figures, these places reflect the people and events that have shaped Victoria's past.

Guided by National Trust-trained staff and volunteers, group visits provide an enjoyable way to explore historic homes, gaols, gardens, and landscapes in a relaxed setting.

Group bookings are welcome for 10 or more guests and our team can assist with planning to ensure your visit runs smoothly.

We also offer a range of programs designed for lifelong learners, creating meaningful opportunities to explore our history and deepen connections to place and community.

Melbourne & Surrounds

Old Melbourne Gaol

Old Melbourne Gaol once held Victoria's most notorious criminals and is now one of Melbourne's oldest surviving structures and a museum devoted to its past.

From 1845 to 1924, hundreds of violent criminals were jailed and hanged at the Old Melbourne Gaol, including the infamous bushranger and outlaw Ned Kelly and gangster Squizzy Taylor. Here, visitors can gain a first-hand experience of what it was like for people who lived and died at the Gaol between 1845 and 1924.

Features

- Explore three levels of the former Old Melbourne Gaol cell block.
- See an exhibition exploring the histories of Women & Children of the Gaol.
- Collection of more than 300 items including; handcuffs, leg-irons, lashing collars, leather belts & contraband weapons.
- Original Gaol gallows, the place of 133 hangings.

Experiences

- Guided tour or self-guided audio tour of the Gaol and former City Watch House.
- Interactive 'Watch House Experience'. With a 'Charge Sergeant' as a guide, visitors are 'arrested' and encounter what it is like to be locked up.
- Tour Options: Escape Artists, Ned Kelly's - Last Stand, Gaol History.
- Night Tours: Hangman's Night Tour and Ghost Tours.

Pentridge Prison Tours

First opened in 1851, Pentridge Prison became one of Australia's longest-operating and toughest prisons, only closing in 1997 after 146 years of uninterrupted operation. It was Victoria's central prison and the most well-known and used gaol, housing most of Victoria's convicted and notorious criminals between 1900 and the 1990s. Pentridge Prison was also the site of Australia's final execution.

Led by National Trust guides and through cutting-edge VR technology, visitors can now uncover the stories and complex history of one of Australia's harshest prisons.

Features

- A comprehensive tour of Pentridge's prisons and grounds, narrated by expert guides, with stories of escape, rebellion, and compassion.
- Go inside the infamous 'H division', formerly the prison's maximum-security unit.
- Explore the remains of the panopticon or 'airing yard', one of only eight known of this kind in the world.
- Award-winning immersive technology used throughout the tour reveals the genuine voices and stories of former guards and inmates.

Experiences

- Guided & AR tours H-Division and Night Tours.
- Nearby cafes, restaurants and shops

Polly Woodside

Polly Woodside is a historic ship moored at Melbourne's vibrant South Wharf precinct, and a physical reminder of Australia's rich maritime heritage.

Launched in 1885 in Belfast, Polly Woodside made 17 trips around the world and operated between Australia and New Zealand. It was used as a coal ship following World War Two, and by 1968 was the last square-rigged deep-water commercial sailing ship still afloat in Australasia.

Features

- Explore the ship's deck and interior, a rare chance to step on board a 19th-century tall ship.
- Award-winning interactive gallery with displays about life at sea, the ship's crew, navigation, maritime language and the history of Melbourne's docks.

Experiences

- Guided tours aboard the ship.
- Gift Shop.
- Located in South Wharf, with options for nearby cafes and restaurants.
- Lifelong learning programs

Regular group bookings are available on Mondays. Bookings on other days incur an additional charge.

Portable Iron Houses

Discover a glimpse of Melbourne's Gold Rush-era life at the Portable Iron Houses in South Melbourne, rare relics of nineteenth-century prefabricated iron architecture. Amidst the surge of migrants following Victoria's 1851 gold discovery, these structures offered vital accommodation solutions. Sourced from catalogues, the houses were shipped from Britain in crates for assembly on-site.

Today, Patterson House remains on its original site, while Abercrombie House and Bellhouse were relocated, preserving this unique historical narrative of migration and settlement.

Regular group bookings are available on Tuesdays. Bookings on other days incur an additional charge.

Nature Journaling through the Gardens

Location: Rippon Lea Estate, Elsternwick

Duration: 2 hours

Cost: $973

Group size: 12 people maximum

Come along and explore Victoria's most grand backyard through the practice of nature journaling. Slow down, look closely, and translate the 14-acre gardens of Rippon Lea Estate onto the page through drawing, writing, or even numbers. Each session will focus on a new corner of these nationally significant grounds, such as the fernery, orchard, flower beds, majestic trees, or tranquil lakeside. We blend science, creativity, and mindfulness to explore what each season offers. No art or science background is needed, if you can hold a pencil, you can nature-journal!

Our friendly, relaxed workshops welcome both beginners and experienced journalers. We'll wander slowly, share tips, templates, and one-on-one support, and provide all supplies along with light refreshments. Come as you are and leave with your own journal pages and simple skills to bring more mindful wonder into everyday life.

Forest Bathing in the Gardens

Location: Rippon Lea Estate, Elsternwick

Duration: 2 hours

Cost: $889

Group size: 15 people maximum

Forest Bathing is immersing in the forest's atmosphere (not bathing in waterways) and is practised throughout the world to improve health and wellbeing. Scientific evidence shows that time in nature can improve physical and psychological health, including our heart health, our immune system, and even the way we think and pay attention.

Dr Kathleen Bagot from Nothing Like Nature invites you to slow down and immerse yourself in the 14-acre gardens. You'll take time to breathe deeply, notice the details, and experience these beautiful surroundings from a fresh perspective.

Kathleen is a certified Forest Therapy guide, mindfulness facilitator and nature journaling educator. She also holds a PhD in Environmental Psychology, specialising in the benefits of time in nature.

Are group rates available?

Discounted group rates are available for visits to Pentridge Prison Tours, Rippon Lea Estate, and Como House and Garden. Private group bookings can also be arranged for the Old Melbourne Gaol.

For other National Trust properties that are not open to the public on a regular basis, designated Group Booking Days are offered. On these days, the property is opened exclusively for group visitors, and a higher per-person rate applies to cover staffing and operational costs.

How long will the tour last?

Tours generally run for approximately 45 minutes, followed by up to one hour of free time for your group to explore the wider property at your leisure.

Please note that this may vary depending on the site. Due to the delicate nature of the buildings and collections, unrestricted access to interiors is not permitted. However, groups are welcome to enjoy the gardens and outdoor areas during their free time.

Do you offer special rates for school or education groups?

Yes. The National Trust offers a range of curriculum-aligned education programs across our properties. These programs provide engaging, hands-on learning experiences across subjects including history, humanities, geography, and mathematics.

Groups with National Trust Members

What if some of my group members are National Trust members?

National Trust Members receive free general admission to our properties. If you are organising a group visit that includes people who are National Trust members, you can supply their Names and Member Numbers to our Bookings Team, and the cost of their visit will be deducted from the group price.

Can members of my group join the National Trust?

Yes. Membership offers free or discounted entry to National Trust properties across Victoria, Australia, and internationally (including the UK, Scotland, Italy, New Zealand, and Canada). If you are looking to visit a number of properties either here in Australia or overseas – a membership is the cheapest option.

New members can join online or in person at the property on the day of your visit, or call our team to process a Membership over the phone.

Membership must be purchased prior to the group booking – as the ticket cost cannot be refunded for a visit booked prior to membership purchase.

Group Visits – Frequently Asked Questions

General Visiting Information

Can groups visit outside regular opening hours?

Some properties offer regular days for group visits to help us manage conservation work and other on-site activities. Visits outside these times can often be arranged subject to availability and may incur an additional charge.

Is there accessibility information for visitors with disabilities?

We warmly welcome visitors with disabilities and assistance dogs. While most properties offer some degree of accessibility, facilities vary.

Please indicate any accessibility requirements on your booking form. A member of our team will contact you to confirm details or provide further information.

Are cafés or refreshment facilities available?

Some of our properties have cafés or kiosks offering light refreshments, tea, and coffee. Please ask at the time of booking, and we'll be happy to provide details for your chosen property.
